"Innovation, governance and territorial design in Europe"

Building the Europe of tomorrow with innovative territories

Do questions about Europe and its construction fascinate you? Do you want to participate in the overhaul of the European project as a professional, or leader of a non-governmental organisation, or local councilor, or citizen....

Do you think that citizenship and local democracy is a daily process at the municipal, inter-municipal and regional levels?

Are you convinced that global transformation (digital revolution, climate and demographic changes, international trade...) require innovative responses?

If yes to the above, the European College of Local Democracy and Territorial Innovation in Cluny is for you.

After 17 years of experience running European Summer Universities, the European College of Cluny offers a new high quality degree in European Affairs: applied to the fields of local democracy and territorial innovation, the course is taught in English and French:

- 4 months of theory and methodology, alternating thematic seminars and transversal lessons, with European lecturers, experts and specialists in contemporary issues: territorial innovation, circular and digital economy, smart specialisation of territories, governance, sustainable management...
- 4 months of territorial immersion in a European community to implement an innovative territorial project.
